RANK AND FILE TURKISH PEOPLE DISLIKE GERMANS

Mills School Teacher Who Was in Constantinople Tells War Experiences

ESCAPES FROM TRANSPORT WHICH MEETS SUBMARINE

Citizens Take to Hills to See
Bombardment of Forts By Foreign Vessels

That the greater portion of Turkey's people, having come to a belief that their country is being used merely as a cat's paw in the big war game which Germany is playing, hold a spirit of bitter hatred toward the Kaiser and his men is the declaration made by Hogarth Pettyjohn, artist and special English instructor at Mills school, who spent nine months in Constantinople immediately following the Sultan's break into the war.

Pettyjohn was a teacher at Robert College, Constantinople, from September, 1914, to June, 1915. He reached the city two days before Russia declared war on Turkey.

Eyewitness of Attacks

During his stay in that portion of Europe he saw events come thick and fast. He watched the bombardment of Turkish-German forts in the northern Constantinople district three successive times by Russian battleships in the Black Sea, lay out behind the English battleships at the Dardanelles while they pounded away at the Turkish land guns, and felt the thrill of excitement from an attack by submarine, climbing upon a raft with others of the passengers from a Turkish transport that was halted in the Sea of Marmora by a British undersea boat.

Americans who have been living in Turkey during wartime have nothing but sympathy for her people, he says. They feel as do the Turks that the country was swung into the war as a part of Germany's big plan, and though, when he left, the Turks were still confident of victory, they held in their hearts dark hatred for the Germans.

Forced into War
"Technically the country was brought into the war by the two boats Goeben and Breslau," says Pettyjohn. "These vessels, owned by Germany, were chased into the straits by the British and took refuge in the harbor of Constantinople."

"Turkey had never had a great navy."

TOURS IN HAWAII SERVE TO CLOSE BIG CONVENTION

Honolulu Delegates Will Leave
Hilo This Afternoon, Arriving
Home Tomorrow

(Star-Bulletin Special by Mutual Wire) HILLO, Sept. 25.—Hawaii's fifth annual Civic Convention, comprising six days of serious consideration of problems of vital importance to every county of the territory, coupled with moments of merriment here and there and sightseeing tours to the wonder spots of the Big Island, has come to a close. At 4 o'clock this afternoon the Honolulu delegates were to leave for Honolulu, reaching the metropolis early Tuesday morning.

Next year will bring the Civic Convention to Honolulu for its second meeting in that city. The selection of Honolulu was unanimous, as in 1917 it will be that city's turn to accommodate the big gathering. With delegates present from all the counties, representing also the leading civic organizations in the territory, one result of the convention just closed has been to bring about a better understanding among the various islands of the group—an understanding which will work for a united effort on the part of all the islands to support the projects brought before and approved by the convention.

Hilo's reception to the visiting delegates has been most cordial, no pains having been spared for their entertainment and comfort while in the Crescent City. The County Fair, a feature of the convention, was a distinct success, and it is the hope of those who attended the convention that this novel fete may be made a permanent feature of future gatherings.

Sunday was given over to a sightseeing tour about the island of Hawaii for the entertainment and instruction of the visiting delegates, one of the reasons for the tour being to show the visitors what the Big Island has to offer in the way of attractions to tourists.

At 9 o'clock in the morning the delegates journeyed along the railroad as far as Laupahoehoe, returning to Hilo in time for luncheon. At 1:30 o'clock the start was made for the Volcano and Crater hotels. Kilaua crater was visited and the delegates were unanimous in their opinion that the great pit of molten lava, violent in appearance yet harmless, is one of Hawaii's greatest assets in luring tourists to the shores of the territory. The night was spent at the Volcano and Crater hotels, accommodations for the delegates and their ladies, as well as Hilo residents, having been made in advance.

Convention Best Ever
This morning an early start was made from the Volcano House and Crater Hotel for Kalapana, Puna and Kaimu, Ophika and Pohiki being visited. The delegates had luncheon at Kapoho. The Honolulu delegates were to leave Kapoho in time to catch the steamer for Honolulu.

Throughout its several sessions the Civic Convention was one of harmony, and it has been set down as the biggest and best meeting of its kind ever held in the territory.

TIME-LIMIT TO MEET OFFER OF STRIKERS IS SET

Men Will Return to Work at Reduced Scale if Shippers
Accept By Tuesday A. M.

If shipping and stevedoring firms here will meet half way Honolulu local of the International Longshoremen's Association before tomorrow morning the stevedores' strike will come to an end.

Officials of the local said today that they are willing to call off the strike and go back to work for 40 cents an hour for a 9-hour day and 55 cents an hour overtime, instead of 50 cents and 75 cents, their original demands, provided shipping and stevedoring firms accept their offer of compromise before tomorrow morning. If the offer is not accepted by tomorrow, according to Secretary Moses K. Kahue, the men will keep to their original demands.

Decision to make an offer of compromise was reached Friday, and the Star-Bulletin was misinformed Saturday by union men when they said no official action to reduce their demands had been taken.

Provisions Given Out
Active steps to provide food for families of the striking longshoremen were taken Saturday night and today by the union. Food to the amount of 250 pounds was distributed this morning, in addition to 500 pounds given out Saturday night.

Much Meat Distributed
Today there were 700 pounds of meat issued to strikers' families needing food, and Saturday night union officials claim they gave out 2620 pounds of meat of all kinds, beef, mutton and pork.

This afternoon a large quantity of fish was bought and given out. Union men say local Chinese and Japanese merchants are making them the lowest possible prices, as they realize that the stevedores form a large percentage of their permanent customers and that they too will benefit if the men win out.

No Reply Received
Union men said at noon today that no letters had been received from shipping or stevedoring firms asking for a conference. Jack Edmondson, a member of the union's arbitration committee, called on Mayor John C. Lane this morning to ask him whether he had received any word from shipping firms offering to send representatives to a conference between them and the strikers. The mayor replied he had heard nothing.

SOLDIER IS ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF BURGLARY

William Hoffman, a soldier at Fort Ruger, was arrested early this morning at Waikiki by Mounted Policemen John B. Kramer and charged at the police station with burglarizing the Seaside hotel. He will probably be turned over to the military authorities this afternoon.

According to the police, articles have been disappearing from the Seaside for some time and Kramer has been watching the place closely in hopes of catching the burglar. About 1:30 this morning he was talking with the Seaside night clerk when they heard a noise in the dining room. Kramer immediately investigated, saw Hoffman and chased him along the beach, catching him near the Outrigger Club premises.

Hoffman had a number of silver knives, forks and spoons in his possession and admitted the theft, saying he had to make payments on a motorcycle which he possessed and he took this means of doing so. The motorcycle was standing nearby at the time, all ready for a whirlwind getaway.
